SECTION 1 GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 1.1 Applicability of the regulation

This regulation applies to the instruction and (preliminary) examination(s) of the following Master's program:

Master's degree program in Research in Social and Behavioral Sciences

Henceforth to be called 'the program'. It is provided within the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences of Tilburg University, henceforth to be called 'the School'.

Article 1.2 Definitions

In this regulation, the following definitions apply:

- a) The law: de Wet op het Hoger Onderwijs en Wetenschappelijk Onderzoek (WHW, 'the higher education and academic research act');
- b) Student: a person who has been registered at the university for receiving instruction and/or taking the (preliminary) examinations in one or more programs;
- c) Course: an educational unit of the program, in the sense intended by the law;
- d) Extra optional course: a course that can be chosen on top of the compulsory program;
- e) Practical: a practical training, as referred to in article 7.13 of the law in one of the -following modes: writing a thesis;
 - writing an essay, paper or trial project;
 - executing a research assignment;
 - participating in fieldwork or an excursion;
 - attending a traineeship;
 - participating in any other instruction activity aimed at acquiring certain skills;
- f) Examination: the Master's examination of the programs;
- g) Examination Board: a board established by the Dean of the Tilburg School of Social and Behavioral Sciences in correspondence with the law, article 7.12;
- h) Preliminary examination: examination of a particular course;
- i) Examiner: person responsible for taking an evaluating (preliminary) exam;
- j) Semester: part of the academic year beginning on September, 1st and ending on a date to be set by the School, approximately January, 31; or beginning on this date and ending on August, 31. In both semesters, at least one week must be scheduled for examinations and re-examinations;
- k) ECTS credits: credit points in accordance with the European Credit Transfer System.

Any other terms have the meaning accorded to them by law.

Article 1.3 Aims of the program

The aims of the program are:

- 1. the acquisition of knowledge, insight, and skills in the fields covered by the programs;
- 2. the acquisition of an academic attitude;
- 3. the preparation for a career at an academic level, or as an academic.

Article 1.4 Form of the program

The programs are taught on a full-time basis.

SECTION 2 ORGANIZATION OF THE PROGRAM

Article 2.1 Study load

- 1. The study load is expressed in ECTS credits.
- 2. The program has a study load of 120 ECTS credits.

3. The courses of the MSc program in Research in Social and Behavioral Sciences have a study load of 3 or 6 ECTS credits, as a rule. The first year thesis of the MSc in Research in Social and Behavioral Sciences has a study load of 12 ECTS. The master's thesis of the MSc program in Research in Social and Behavioral Sciences has a study load of 24 ECTS credits.

Article 2.2 Composition

1. For the students who have started the program in 2011/2012, the program comprises the courses listed in appendix 1.
2. For the students who started in 2010/2011, the program comprises the courses listed in appendix 2.
3. In the enumeration referred to in the first and second clause, no courses must appear that already formed part of the Bachelor's examination that provides access to the Master's program.

SECTION 3 (PRELIMINARY) EXAMINATIONS OF THE PROGRAM

Article 3.1 Periods and frequency of the (preliminary) examinations

1. Every academic year, there are two opportunities to take preliminary examinations in the courses referred to in Article 2.2.
2. In deviation from the provision in the first clause, the opportunity to take a preliminary examination in a course that is not taught in a particular academic year, is offered to the students at least once.
3. Regarding the dates on which preliminary examinations and resits shall be taken the following applies:
 - * The dates of written examinations and resits will be determined by the Educational Office and published in the Electronic Study Guide (ESG), ultimately at the start of the academic year.
 - * The dates of oral examinations and resits will be determined through mutual consent between the instructor and the student concerned.
 - * With regard to handing in assignments or papers that are part of a preliminary examination, the instructor will determine two dates for doing so (in accordance with the two opportunities a student has for the successful completion of a course). The dates for handing-in will be published in the Electronic Study Guide (ESG), ultimately at the start of the course.

Article 3.2 Form of the preliminary examinations

1. Subject to the provision in the second clause, the preliminary examinations in the courses mentioned in Art. 2.2 are written preliminary examinations as a rule. At the request of the student, the Examination Board can grant permission to take a preliminary examination in a form other than the original form. The Examination Board can decide that the preliminary examination of a course takes a different form.
2. Students with a functional disorder are given the opportunity to take preliminary examinations in a manner adapted as much as possible to their individual handicap. If necessary, the Examination Board seeks expert advice before deciding.

Article 3.3 Oral preliminary examinations

1. No more than one person at a time is examined orally, unless the Examination Board has decided otherwise. With permission of the examinee, the examiner can decide that a certain exam will be held collectively.
2. An oral preliminary examination is public, unless, in a special case, the Examination Board has decided otherwise, or unless the student raises objections.
3. Oral examinations will be scheduled by mutual agreement between the examinee and the examiner(s).

Article 3.4 Duration of the exams

The duration of a written exam is 3 hours, unless the first responsible examiner reports otherwise before the start of the exam, the first responsible examiner lets another person report this, or this information is on the first page of the exam. The duration of an exam should be such that the examinee, within reasonable standards, has enough time to answer all questions.

If an exam has a duration longer than three hours, the exam will be split up in two parts that each last no longer than 3 hours. Between these two parts there must be a break of at least half an hour. The two parts should however be taken on one and the same day. The first responsible examiner should report this to the Educational office.

Article 3.5 Exam registration

1. Registration of exams takes place at the Central Student Desk. This registration also takes place according to the guidelines established by the Central Student Desk.
2. In special cases the Examination Board can differentiate from the in clause 1 defined rule with regard to the place and time the registration at the latest will have to take place.

Article 3.6 Determining and publicising preliminary examination results

1. The results are published on Tilburg University's website, the Student's Portal, within 15 working days after the day the preliminary examination was taken.
2. As soon as an oral preliminary examination has been taken, the examiner determines the result and hands a pertinent written statement to the student.
3. The Central Student Administration Office provides for a correct registration of the result within a period of 5 working days.
4. For a preliminary examination other than written or oral, the Examination Board determines in advance in what way it will be taken and within what period the student will receive a written statement specifying the result.
5. The student has the right of inspection, referred to in Art. 3.6, as well as the right of appeal to the appeal Board for the examinations.

Article 3.7 Period of validity

1. In principle, the period of validity of passed courses is unlimited.
2. In deviation from the provision in the first clause, the Examination Board can impose a complementary or a substitute preliminary examination for a preliminary examination that was passed more than five years earlier, prior to allowing the student to take the Master's examination.
3. For the period of validity of an exemption for a course, clauses 1 and 2 hold.

Article 3.8 Right of inspection

1. During three weeks after the publication of the results of a written preliminary examination, the student is allowed to inspect his/her assessed work. Also at his/her request, a copy of this work is provided at cost price.
2. During the period mentioned in the first clause, the student can take cognisance of the questions and assignments of the preliminary examination in question, as well as of the norms on the basis of which the assessment was made.
3. The examiner can determine that inspection and cognisance take place at a particular place and and a particular time. If the party concerned can prove that force majeure prevented him/her from appearing at that particular place and those particular times, he/she will be given another opportunity, if possible within the period mentioned in the first clause.

Article 3.9 Exemption

1. At the student's request the examination board can exempt a student from a preliminary examination of a course, if the student if the student has completed a course in a Master's program which completely covers all course objectives.

2. An exemption from completing the master's thesis shall never be granted.
3. A request for an exemption of taking a preliminary examination must be submitted to the examining board in writing and well motivated.
4. Unless a request must be rejected on formal grounds, the examining board will hear the examiner(s) concerned before deciding on the request made.
5. A negative regulation on the request made will be motivated.
6. A request for an exemption for a course must be ultimately submitted in the third week of the period or semester in which the course is being offered. If a request is being submitted after the third week, it shall not be taken under advisement.

Article 3.10 Optional Courses

1. Optional courses that are not part of the curriculum can be mentioned on the certificate if desired when these courses are a part of a master program. To list extra optional courses no permission is needed from the Examination Board. Permission is required when these courses are offered at a foreign institution.
2. Despite of what is defined in clause 1, the School is not responsible for ensuring that students can follow courses at another institution. Students themselves should verify admission.
3. Students should take into account that optional courses offered at a foreign university can be offered and examined at the same time as courses at Tilburg University. Students themselves are responsible for this.

Article 3.11 Degree

1. Those who have passed the examination of the MSc in Research in Social and Behavioral Sciences are granted the title 'Master of Science'.
2. The conferred degree is indicated on the certificate of the examination.

SECTION 4 ADMISSION, PRELIMINARY TRAINING

Article 4.1 Admission Board

Admission to the program is assigned to the Director of Studies, the vice-dean for Research.

Article 4.2 Preliminary training and admission

1. The program has one starting moment, namely September 1, every year.
2. Admissible to the MSc in Research in Social and Behavioral Sciences, via the admission Board referred to in Art. 4.1, are those who, in the Netherlands or abroad, have passed a Bachelor's or Master's degree in a relevant discipline of the Social Sciences (for example: psychology, sociology, organization studies, human resources studies). Only students who meet criteria a to g can be admitted:
 - a. A Bachelor's or Master's degree, which provided undergraduate training, at or equal to Dutch University standard, in a relevant discipline of the Social Sciences.
 - b. An average score of at least 7.5 (75%) for the courses in the second- and third-year of a Dutch bachelor's program, or an equivalent average score in a non-Dutch system for the courses in the second- and third-year bachelor's program;
 - c. Sufficient knowledge of the English language. Students who are non-native speakers of English will have to pass the TOEFL, a language admissions test, with a score of at least 600 (paper and pencil), 250 (computer), 100 (internet-based). The IELTS language test – score of at least 7.0 (with at least 6.5 for the separate elements) – will also meet the requirements;
 - d. In exceptional cases, the Examination Board can decide that the applicant's English proficiency meets the requirements as stated in article 4.2 section 3 c without submittal of official certification.
 - e. Sufficient knowledge of methodology and statistics. Students with insufficient knowledge are obliged to follow the Summer School in Methodology and Statistics, offered by the Department of Methodology and Statistics from the Tilburg School of Social and Behavioral Sciences at Tilburg University, and to pass the exam.

- f. Strong motivation, excellent skills and sufficient talent for doing scientific research. In case of disagreement, the Director of Studies will decide. Students will have to show the Bachelor's thesis or a comparable essay from the Bachelor's degree;
- g. Supportive evidence of a suitable attitude and motivation for the successful completion of the program will have to come from an application letter and two letters of reference. In case of doubt, the board of the Graduate School can decide to have an additional interview as part of the selection procedure.

Article 4.3 Admission inquiry: procedure

1. Students who do not come from an EEA country and do not possess a permanent residence permit for EEA countries must have submitted their request to be admitted to the program as of September 1st of any year to the admission Board before April 15th of the same year. Students who come from an EEA country or possess a permanent residence permit for EEA countries must have submitted their request to be admitted to the program as of September 1st of any year before June 1st of the same year at the latest.
2. In view of the admission to the program as intended in Art. 4.2, the admission Board makes an inquiry into the knowledge, insight, and skills of the candidate. To complement written proof of the training program(s) completed by the candidate, the Board may decide to have certain knowledge and skills tested by experts within or outside the university.
3. Within 6 weeks after the application, which can be submitted in the period specified in Art. 4.3.1, the admission Board takes an admission decision as intended in the same article.
4. Admission is granted subject to the condition that the candidate, at the latest on the commencement date of the program chosen by him/her, meets the requirements with respect to knowledge and skills evidenced by the certificates of the training programs attended.
5. In the written statement with respect to admission, the student is alerted to the possibility of appeal to the appeal Board for the examinations.

SECTION 5 PROGRAM COUNSELLING

Article 5.1 Study progress administration

1. The Central Student Administration (CSA) registers the students' individual course results.
2. CSA directs the accessibility of the study progress data on the Internet, as well as the information on this.

Article 5.2 Counselling

1. In the framework of the admission procedure, the School can make an arrangement with the student about the individual organization of the program he/she attends.
2. The School sees to it that every student receives sufficient guidance in the course of the program.

SECTION 6 TRANSITIONAL AND FINAL PROVISIONS

Article 6.1 Transitional arrangements

When a student has to pass a course that is no longer offered in the current curriculum, individual transitional arrangements are made.

Article 6.2 Changes

1. Changes in this regulation are decided on by the board of the Graduate School, after hearing the Educational Board and consulting the Dean, in a separate decision.
2. A change in this regulation does not concern the current academic year, provided that it cannot reasonably be argued that this prejudices students' interests.

Article 6.3 General hardship clause

The Examination Board may, in the event of a major injustice, decide in individual cases to make an exception to the Teaching and Examination Regulations in the student's favor.

Article 6.4 Publication

1. The Dean sees to the fitting publication of this regulation, of the rules and guidelines laid down by the Examination Board, and of the changes in these documents.
2. Through the School's Web pages, any interested person can take cognizance of the documents referred to in the first paragraph.

Article 6.5 Date of commencement

This regulation comes into operation on September 1st, 2011.

Laid down by the Dean on May 26th, 2011.

Appendix 1 to Article 2.2

In the academic year 2011-2012 two programs are offered. The program of the student's cohort 2011-12 and also the program of the student's cohort 2010-2011 (these students started their program in September 2010).

First-year courses of the program 2010-11 as well as course form earlier years that are not part of the curriculum of 2011-2012 are no longer being offered. For transitional arrangements see Article 6.1.
