

OUTREACHING HONORS PROGRAM

Moral Leadership in Crisis and Conflict

Outreaching program, Tilburg University

Main characteristics

Title of lab	Moral Leadership in Crisis and Conflict
Professor/Lab supervisor:	prof dr. Fred van Iersel and Dr. A Meijknecht
Name of the chair	Religion and Ethics in the Context of the Armed Forces
General information	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Students will receive skills and research training in several Modules and Searl meetings.</li> <li>● lectures, field research, international focus.</li> <li>● Dutch speaking students and English speaking students</li> <li>● All disciplines</li> </ul>
Number of students	max. 16 (three groups)
Period	September 2019– June 2020
Effort per student	~80h/student
Effort for supervisor	meetings every second week of the project
Final presentation	May or June 2020
Background of the project	Moral leadership seems to be booming. But at the same there is an obvious inflation of terminology. Two types of cases put moral leadership the test: a crisis in continuity and mission of an organisation, and social, political conflict.
Problem statement	Which are the main requirements of moral leadership in crisis and conflict? And can these be trained? The military will be one institutional context of this project, a commercial enterprise the second, the Catholic church the third one.
Stakeholders

- Dutch military chaplaincy, Dutch military, enterprise, Vatican.

Research approach

- qualitative research based on theoretical introduction, and training in value focused interviewing.

Final reporting

- Final presentation for fellow students
- Final report on empirical research and lessons learned

Organizational issues

Field research must be organised timely.