Section 1 General Terms

Article 1.1 Applicability of the regulations

These regulations apply to the educational program and the examinations of the Bachelor's program in Theology (English language), henceforth to be called 'the program', and the Pre-Master's program Christianity and Society.

The program is offered in Tilburg by the School of Catholic Theology of Tilburg University, henceforth to be called 'the School'.

Article 1.2 Definitions

In these regulations, the following definitions apply:

a. the law: the law on higher education and academic research (WHW, Wet op het hoger onderwijs en wetenschappelijk onderzoek);

b. student: the person registered at the university to receive instruction and/or take examinations that are part of the program;

c. propaedeutic phase: the propaedeutic phase of the Bachelor's program, referred to in article 7.8 of the law (WHW);

d. post-propaedeutic phase: that part of the Bachelor's program that follows the propaedeutic phase;

e. course: a unit of study in the program, in the sense intended by the law;

f. practical: a practical exercise, as referred to in article 7.13 of the law, in one of the following forms:

  - the writing of a thesis or concluding essay
  - the writing of a paper or a test design
  - the execution of a research assignment
  - participation in fieldwork or an excursion
  - doing an internship
  - participation in any other educational activity that is aimed at acquiring particular skills;

h. final examination: the Bachelor's exam of the program;

i. semester: segment of the academic year, starting on Monday in the week of 1 September and terminating no later than 31 January, or starting no later than 1 February and terminating on 31 August. At least one week in both semesters must be scheduled for examinations and re-sits, where the planning must be such that the student who qualifies for a warning in the first semester, as mentioned in Article 7.8b WHW, will receive it in time and, furthermore, there will be sufficient time in the second semester for a timely performance of the necessary actions regarding the binding study recommendation (in Dutch BSA: Binding Study Advice/Bindend Studie Advies);
Article 1.3 Objectives of the program

1. Objectives

a. The objective of the program is that students acquire an academic level of theological thinking and practice.

b. The program offers thorough and functional preparation for the School’s own Master programs: the Master’s program in Theology (in Dutch), the Master’s Program Academic Teacher in Religion and Philosophy of Life (in Dutch), and the Master’s Program Christianity and Society (in English). In addition, it prepares for academic Master programs in Theology elsewhere (in the Netherlands or abroad); or for Master programs in Religious Studies or other disciplines. Such programs may set additional entry requirements.

c. The program is intended to prepare the student for academic level participation in church and society. In addition to developing the student’s intellectual capabilities, the development of his/her personal attitude, responsibility, and ethical awareness are essential objectives of the program.

d. The program offers a broad, discipline-oriented study program. Its coherence is assured by two threads: a thread that focuses on the sources and history of tradition, and one that seeks to clarify the current situation and context. Each discipline incorporates both threads, and also places its own emphases on the basis of its own character and methodologies. In the program as a whole, the two threads converge particularly in Systematic Theology (Dogmatics and Moral Theology), in Practical Theology, Liturgical Studies, and Canon Law. The emphasis in the systematic theological disciplines is on articulating, interpreting, understanding, and accounting for the Christian faith and the Christian ethos in the light of questions that people and humanity currently faces. In the other theological disciplines, the emphasis is on the organization and life of the church and the up-to-date transmission of tradition.

e. The program is intended to familiarize students with the cumulative body of knowledge within the various disciplines, and to acquaint them with the various research practices. Students are challenged on the basis of this thorough grounding to apply this knowledge to increasingly complex questions as they progress through the program.
f. The academic character of the program is determined in large part by the fact that the acquisition of knowledge takes place against the background of current scholarly research. This happens by teaching students to assess research, responsibly apply the results of research, and carry out research themselves (research training). In addition, lecturers will incorporate the (preliminary) results of their research into their teaching.

g. The program’s primary aim is to offer foundational training. In conjunction with a Master’s program, it gives access to a profession. The program is part of the Roman Catholic Church’s training program for ministry. The program has therefore been organized in such a way as to comply, together with the Master’s program in Theology, with the requirements of Sapientia christiana and the Ratio neerlandica.

2. Final attainments

a. Discipline-specific academic knowledge and skills
The knowledge and skills described here apply to the various individual disciplines (1-4) and to Theology as a whole (5-6).

1. The student has elementary knowledge of the various disciplines that are part of the curriculum: in the first place Biblical Studies, Church History, Philosophy, Systematic Theology, and Moral Theology, and subsequently also Spirituality, Canon Law, Practical Theology, Social Sciences, and Religious Studies. The student is familiar with the central concepts, methods, and major research traditions of the various disciplines.

2. The student is able to apply his/her knowledge of the various theological research methods and techniques to simple questions.

3. The student has greater-than-elementary knowledge and skills in the discipline he/she has chosen for his/her thesis.

4. The student has sufficient knowledge of the source languages (Hebrew, Greek, and Latin) to be able to study the theological sources in the language in question.

5. The student has an overview of the entire field of Theology, and has insight into the differences between the disciplines.

6. The student is able to connect the insights acquired with insights from other disciplines and with the current situation of church and society in a meaningful way.

b. Academic skills
The student is able to read (7-8), think (9), write (10), and speak (11) at academic level.

7. The student is able to read primary sources and secondary literature.

8. The student is able to collect, select, organize, and summarize primary sources and secondary literature, and to discern what is relevant.

9. The student is able to analyze, clearly argue, and coherently assess complex issues.

10. The student is able to write correctly and to an academic standard (paper, essay, report).

11. The student is able to present and discuss his/her work orally.

c. Academic attitude

12. The student is intellectually independent. He/she has a realistic perception of his/her own learning process. He/she is able to consciously direct his/her own learning.
13. The student has a sense of responsibility. He/she is able to reflect on his/her own scholarly and social responsibility.
14. The student demonstrates curiosity, critical capacity, and creativity.

Article 1.5 Form of the program

1. The 180 Bachelor’s program is a full-time program; the 147 Bachelor’s program is a part-time program. Students are free to choose where they will take the program.
2. The program is taught in English.
3. Details of the program format are described in the Osiris Course Catalog.
4. At the end of each semester, students will be given the opportunity to evaluate the courses they took in a questionnaire.

Article 1.6 Examinations associated with the program

The Bachelor’s examination is the only examination that can be taken in the program.
Section 2 Organization of the program

Article 2.1 Composition and final examination of the program

1. The program consists of a propaedeutic phase and a post-propaedeutic phase.
2. The program is concluded with the final examination of the Bachelor’s program.

Article 2.2 Study load

1. The study load of the program is 180 ECTS-credits.
2. The study load of the 147 Bachelor is 147 ECTS credits.
3. The study load of the propaedeutic phase is 60 ECTS-credits.
4. The study load is expressed in whole ECTS-credits.
5. The study load of the individual courses is normally at least 3 ECTS credits, or a multiple thereof.
6. If fewer than three students are in attendance at the first session of a course, the lecturer and students may decide in mutual consultation on the format of the lectures.

Article 2.3 Academic training

The program contains elements that contribute sufficiently to the students’ academic training, in particular independent scientific reasoning and action. This applies specifically to the relationship between the Christian faith and philosophical, ideological, and cultural traditions in modern society.
Section 3 The propaedeutic phase of the program

Article 3.1 Composition of the propaedeutic phase

The propaedeutic phase comprises the courses and the corresponding course loads as specified below. Component details are specified in the Osiris Course Catalog.

The propaedeutic phase consists of a language component (9 EC, see below), and overviews of and introductions to the most important theological disciplines (51 EC), making it an accurate reflection of the entire Theology program.

Section 4 The post-propaedeutic phase of the program

Article 4.1 Composition of the post-propaedeutic phase

The post-propaedeutic phase comprises the components/courses and the corresponding study loads as mentioned below. Component details are specified in the Osiris Course Catalog.

The post-propaedeutic phase consists of a languages component (18 ECTS credits), and offers in-depth familiarization with each discipline. For the 180 Bachelor, this in-depth familiarization component consists of 81 ECTS credits; for the 147 Bachelor it consists of 69 ECTS credits. The courses are offered either in Utrecht or in Tilburg on a rotating basis (year A in Utrecht, year B in Tilburg, etc.), except for the languages and Jewish Studies, which are offered in both places every year. New Testament: Acts and Epistles is offered every year (alongside the Latin and Jewish Studies courses) in the 147 Bachelor program. The post-propaedeutic phase of both Bachelor programs (180 and 147) is concluded by writing a Bachelor’s thesis of 9 ECTS credits. The curriculums without a Bachelor’s thesis as described in the Education and Examinations Regulations for the 2014-2015 academic year apply to students who started the program before September 1, 2014 and who have since been enrolled in the program without interruption.

Students who intend to enrol for the First-degree Religion and Philosophy Teacher Training Master’s program after obtaining their Bachelor’s degree may replace the Greek 3, Hebrew 3, Latin 1, Latin 2, and Latin 3 courses with an elective course.

School of Catholic Theology, Tilburg University
Article 4.2 Electives

1. Students have the option of taking 21 ECTS credits’ worth of electives. These offer students the opportunity to customize their studies to suit their own personal interests. The electives could focus on in-depth familiarization with, or broadening out of one of the fields of knowledge in the fixed Bachelor’s program.

2. Students take electives in the second and third years of the program. They can choose from the electives offered by the School, or from courses or minors offered by other schools of Tilburg University or other universities in the Netherlands or abroad.

3. The School offers the following courses:
In addition, the School offers the Dutch course Beroepsseminar (Professional Seminar course, 6 EC). Students who intend to enrol in the Master's program in Theology or the First-degree Religion and Philosophy Teacher Training Master's program must pass this course.

4. Students who wish to take elective courses that are not offered by the School require the permission of the Examining Board. Such courses may consist of at most 12 ECTS credits' worth of propaedeutic courses offered by other Schools of Tilburg University, and/or by other institutions of higher learning (including foreign institutions); this is at the discretion of the Examining Board. In addition, the electives chosen must comply with the applicable criteria on size, level, and cohesion.

5. Students who have chosen to study for a canonical baccalaureate in Sacred Theology will have to choose a combination of courses as described in the ‘Curriculum for the obtaining of canonical degrees in Sacred Theology’¹ as electives.

Article 4.3 Bachelor’s Thesis

1. The Bachelor’s Thesis is a fixed part of the Bachelor’s program in Theology, except for students who started the program before September 1, 2014, and have since been enrolled in the program without interruption. Students must demonstrate in their Bachelor’s thesis that they comply with the program’s intended attainment objectives.

2. The Bachelor’s thesis has a study load of 9 ECTS credits. Students may freely choose the discipline in which they write their Bachelor’s thesis (but see section 3).

3. The 147 BA has a study load of 3 ECTS credits for the Bachelor’s thesis. BA 147 students do not choose electives. They choose one 6 or 9 ECTS credits course in the fourth year, and then receive dispensation for 6 of these ECTS credits; instead they write a Bachelor’s thesis in the same discipline. Thus the total study load for the Bachelor’s thesis is 9 ECTS credits.

Article 4.4 Post-propedeutic practicals

The following courses of the propaedeutic phase as referred to in article 4.1, in addition to theoretical lectures and seminars also include teaching sessions in the form of practicals.

Section 5 Examinations and final examination of the program

Article 5.1 Required order

Not applicable.

Article 5.2 Exam periods and frequency of the examinations

1. In every academic year, there are two opportunities for taking exams for the courses mentioned in paragraphs 3 and 4.

2. Contrary to the rule defined in subsection 1, students are offered at least one opportunity to take examinations for courses not offered in a particular academic year.

3. If the examination takes place on the basis of a project, a paper or an essay, the student must hand the project, paper or essay in at the latest:
   - on the Sunday before the first Monday of the second semester for courses from the first semester
   - on July 1 for courses from the second semester;
   unless the course’s study guide has stricter deadlines. A student is obliged to report to the lecturer when he/she does not adhere to these deadlines. If a student does not adhere to these deadlines, the examination will count as a missed opportunity. A missed opportunity will be graded as 4 (quite insufficient). The student is still entitled to a second opportunity.

4. If a student uses the second opportunity, if need be for a revised version of a paper or an essay, he/she must hand it in at the latest:
   - on March 30 for courses from the first semester;
   - on August 5 for courses from the second semester.
   After these dates, the examination will count as a missed opportunity. A missed opportunity will be graded as 4 (quite insufficient). The student must enroll anew for the course in the following academic year if he/she wishes to take the examination again.

5. In case of a first opportunity, the lecturer will determine the results of the assessment of a project, paper or essay that is covered by the above-mentioned regulation at the latest:
   - After fifteen working days after the first submission deadline for a course from the first semester;
   - on July 22 for a course from the second semester;
   and at the latest on the same day will notify the faculty’s administration of the results.

6. In case of a second opportunity, the lecturer will determine the results of the assessment of a project, paper or essay that is covered by the above-mentioned regulation at the latest:
   - on April 20 for a course from the first semester;
   - on August 25 for a course from the second semester;
   and at the latest on the same day will notify the faculty’s administration of the results.

7. If a student cannot comply with the set deadlines due to circumstances beyond his/her control, he/she can get a postponement for the above-mentioned dates. Hereto the student must send in a written request to the Board of Examiners within seven working days after the deadline. The Board of Examiners will assess if it is a case of force majeure.

8. If a lecturer, otherwise than through force majeure, does not comply with the above-mentioned deadlines, he/she will be held accountable in a performance appraisal.

9. Students who have successfully passed all interim examinations except one, or who have the required dispensations, are entitled, subject to the conditions specified below, to one additional opportunity to take an interim examination in the component in question, either in writing or orally at the examiner’s discretion. The following conditions apply:
   a. the student in question sat at least the last two examinations of the component in question, or was unable to sit one or two of the last examinations due to special circumstances as described in Article 8.7;
   b. the student in question is at risk of sustaining a disproportionate delay due to the fact that the last course of the compulsory program has yet to be passed;
   c. one of the student’s attempts has been graded with at least a 4.

Article 5.3 Form of the examinations

1. Examinations of the courses, mentioned in paragraph 3 and 4, will be taken orally or in writing, in accordance with the information in the Osiris Course Catalog. A written examination also comprehends an examination that consists of writing one or more assignments, a project, a report or a thesis.

2. At the student’s request, the Board of Examiners can give students permission to take examinations in a different way and at a different time than originally specified.

3. Students with functional limitations are given the opportunity to take examinations in a way that is adapted as much as possible to their individual situation. If taking the exam in an adapted fashion requires particular facilities or a special form of examination, students must file a request for special arrangements at the Digital Report Desk Functional Limitations.

4. For all parts of a practical, attendance and participation is compulsory.

4a. For eight lectures of 2 or 3 x 45 minutes, only two lectures may be missed. The lecturer must be informed beforehand of a student’s absence. The student will receive an assignment in replacement for the missed lecture.

4b. If a student misses 4 or more lectures out of a series of 16 meetings (or 6 or more out of a series of 24, or eight or more out of a series 32), he/she must enroll anew for the course in the following academic year. Only in case the student missed more lectures than allowed due to circumstances beyond his/her control, he/she can compensate for his/her absence by means of a replacement assignment. Hereto the student must make a written request to the Board of Examiners that will assess if it is a case of force majeure.
Article 5.4 Oral examinations

3. The examiner determines the result of an oral examination no later than 5 working days after the exam has taken place, and provides the student with a written statement specifying the result.

4. For an examination that is neither a written nor an oral exam, the Board of Examiners decides beforehand how and when students will receive a written statement specifying the result.

5. Students can file an appeal with the Examinations Appeal Board, up to six weeks after the announcement of the results of an examination.

Article 5.6 Period of validity

1. In principle, courses passed by students have unlimited validity; results obtained for interim tests and interim papers remain valid only during the academic year in question and the following year, unless the Board of Examiners decides otherwise.

2. Contrary to the rule defined in subsection 1, the Board of Examiners can impose an additional or replacement examination for a course, when the examination for that course was passed more than five years (for full-time students) or eight years (for part-time students) previously, before the student is admitted to take the final examination.

3. Subsections 1 and 2 also apply with regard to the period of validity of an exemption for a course.
Article 5.7 Right of inspection

1. During at least six weeks after the examination results have been announced, students have the right to inspect their graded examination. Also, students will be given a copy of the exam if requested.

2. During the period mentioned in subsection 1, any student can inspect the questions and the assignments of the examination in question, and, if possible, be given the norms on the basis of which the assessment has taken place.

3. The Board of Examiners may determine that inspection occurs at a fixed place and at least two fixed points in time. If the person concerned can prove to be or to have been, unable to come at this fixed place and time, he/she will be offered another opportunity, if possible within the period mentioned in subsection 1.

Article 5.8 Exemptions

1. At the student’s request, after having heard the examiner concerned, the Board of Examiners can grant a student an exemption for an examination, if the student:
   - has completed a course at a university that is comparable in terms of content, study load, and level; or
   - can show that he/she possesses sufficient knowledge and skills as a result of work or professional experience.

2. The request is to be submitted to the secretary of the Board of Examiners, together with the necessary papers substantiating the student’s claim, and must include a specification of the applicant’s reasons for making the request.

Article 5.9 Final exam

The Board of Examiners determines the result of the final exam as soon as the student has provided sufficient proof of having passed the exams and thus of having acquired the necessary academic training.

Article 5.10 Degree

1. The degree of ‘Bachelor of Arts’ is conferred on those who have passed the final exam.

2. The degree conferred is specified on the degree certificate.
Section 6 Previous education / admission
